Oats, Sprats and Barley Bread – Feeding Devon in World War I

A Symposium presented by Devon History Society, the University of Exeter and the Devon Remembers Heritage Project

Saturday 13 May 2017

Lecture Theatre B*, Streatham Court, University of Exeter, EX4 4QJ

An exhibition of research posters will be shown in the corridor throughout the day

Chair: Professor Henry French

Programme

10.00 – 10.30	Registration and Coffee
	Session I
10.30 – 11.20	Dr Paul Brassley, University of Exeter: Overview of Farming in Devon during the First World War
11.20 – 12.20	Changing Farming Practice (Farming Research Group) Increasing the Supply of Home Grown Vegetables (Julia Neville) The Home Front Kitchen (Paul Cleave)
12.20 – 13.30	Sandwich Lunch (La Touche Café, Business School)
	Session II
13.30 – 14.20	Dr Robb Robinson, University of Hull: Fish, Fishermen and the First World War: Devon and the National Perspective
14.20 – 15.00	Stephen Reynolds of Sidmouth (Nigel Hyman) Two Girls on the Land – Faith Lowe's Diary (Judy Moss)
15.00 – 15.20	Tea
	Session III
15.20 – 16.20	Charles Berry – Devon County Council Horticultural Adviser (Clare Greener) W.C. Godfrey – Exmouth Nurseryman (April Marjoram) The Rector, the Parish Council and allotments in Hemyock (Penny Lawrence)
16.30	Conference Closes

To book a place at this Symposium please do not use the normal DHS booking arrangements but book from 1st February on-line via Eventbrite at https://oatspratsbarley.eventbrite.co.uk You will need to enter the password oatspratsbarley to book. No payment is required but bookings must without exception be made by 30 April. As places are being offered to other groups, early booking is advised. If you are not able to access Eventbrite via a computer, contact the DHS Bookings Secretary on 01647 433492 to book a place on your behalf.

*Lecture Theatre B is in Building No 31 off Rennes Drive. Free parking is available on Saturdays. See campus map at http://www.exeter.ac.uk/visit/directions/streathammap/areaamap/